

No. 18.

Jeff Zane.

Hagerdon

(E. H. Brown)

Myandot Indians.

Jeff Zane. Myandot. The Zane family is famous in American frontier history. See Hether's Chronicles of Border Warfare, Dewart's edition. The Myandot portion of the Zane family was founded by Isaac Zane, who was captured, when nine years old, by the Myandots, on the South Branch of the Potomac. He was adopted and reared by the Myandots and married a Myandot woman. His descendants are in every Myandot family now. He was a stirring energetic man, and founded Zanesfield, Ohio; see Hove's Collections of Ohio. His brothers founded Wheeling, W. Va., and Zanesville, Ohio. Elizabeth Zane carried the powder at the siege of a fort near Wheeling, and became immortal. She was sister to Isaac Zane. I think I write here from memory only. There are many Zanes in the tribe now.

Given me by Eldridge H. Brown, Myandotte,
Oklahoma, March, 1898 -
William E. Cornell